Great Crowds Greet President-elect and Wife at Newport News.

A PROCESSION TRIUMPHAL

Parade Is Delayed When Senator Forgets to Provide High-Shoe Shoes for Chilly Weather; Airplane-Brightle Escort for Party; Several Speeches.

By Associated Press.
GENEVA, Dec. 4.—(Iñorio Pueyredon, the Argentine foreign minister today honored Paul Hyman, president of the League of Nations assembly, a letter announcing that the Argentine delegation had ceased its participation in the league.

The letter it later developed, officially announced the withdrawal of the Argentine delegation from the assembly. Whether this meant that Argentina was withdrawing altogether from the league was not immediately apparent.

GENEVA, Dec. 4.—Argentina's delegation to the assembly of the League of Nations did not appear during the first hour of today's meeting. H. Pueyredon, head of the delegation, refused to deny that Argentina was withdrawing from the league. "I cannot discuss the matter at this time," he told to the Associated Press.

WASHINGON, Dec. 4.—President Harding received a rousing welcome from the Virginia (Baltimore) cities and responded with a message of renewed national confidence and unity. Final abandonment of sectionalism and a rebirth of fearless nationalism furnished the theme of several speeches on his program at Newport News and Norfolk. He said that although his iron and furnished many pleasant experiences it had served to make strong his devotion to independent America.

The steamer bearing President-elect and Mrs. Harding from the canal zone passed through Hampton Roads soon after daylight and docked at 10:30. Embarking, the party was taken for a ride through the Newport shipyards and the city's downtown section before the first speech.

Crossing to Norfolk early in the afternoon Mr. Harding was to spend the remainder of the day there, the guest of that city. As it steamed up Hampton Roads Mr. Harding's ship was accorded a triumphant ovation. A dozen of 25 army airplanes, accompanied by three naval dirigibles, were sent to form a guard of honor and the ships along the way were dressed in marine signal flags spelling out a welcome home.

The presidential yacht Mayflower, which brought Secretary Colby to the Woods on the first leg of his journey to South America, dropped her flags as the liner passed and the battleship Florida, waiting nearby to take the secretary aboard, manned the rail to honor the President-elect.

"Anxious by exposure to the tropical sun, Mr. Harding came down the gangplank a picture of perfect health and Mr. Harding, who had been ill much of the time since they left New Orleans November 18, also appeared well. They greeted the crowds that waited for them at the pier and during their ride to the city were kept busy waving acknowledgments to cheering crowds.

A not unusual circumstance of travel delayed the start of the motor ride and held up for a few minutes the audience of spectators of entertainment. At the last moment on shipboard Mr. Harding discovered that in picking he had neglected to leave out of his bag a pair of high shoe suitable for the chilly atmosphere into which the ship had run over night. Rather than attempt to overhaul all baggage he made a hasty motor trip to a downtown shoe store and changed from leather to a new pair of high tops while the parade waited.

The entertainment schedule for the President-elect promised for a reception at Newport News and dinner to Norfolk before his departure to night for Bedford, Va., where he is to speak tomorrow.

The Economy

In ALL the representative displays of hats for winter much plume and much manipulation of plume are in evidence. The all-feather hat is always a part of the autumn millinery parade, but it has never appeared in such numbers or in so many combinations and colors as are shown this fall. Along with these all-feather hats there are hats of fur and feathers, and of velvet and feathers in every great variety of models. In all-feather hats there is endless ingenuity and variety of design. Birds of many different feather contribute their part to those gorgeous bits of headwear and biting natural enemies among the feathered tribes find their plumage side by side—for to flock in peace together.

Feather and fur hats are usually small and expensive. This season finds a generous sprinkling of larger shapes among them, and as compared to other millinery they continue to be less expensive than heretofore. This country has always supplied great quantities of raw feathers and during the war may have learned to make use of them.

MORE MONEY

Received by the State in Past Year Than in 1919.

JARRISBURG, Dec. 3.—Auditor General Charles A. Snyder announced the receipt of the state for the fiscal year ending with November 30 aggregated $62,071,293.97. This includes more than $8,000,000 from motor vehicle registrations, making the net revenue still $2,000,000 ahead of the total of $62,091,769.84, which was the record made in the year ending with November 30, 1919.

Corporation taxes furnished the usual large share of the income.

Says It First and Says It Last.

Carrie G. Harrel, 319 Nicholson St., Norfolk, Va., writes: "I tell anybody that Foley's Honey & Tar is all right. It did me all the good. I said it first and I'll say it last." Thousands of bottles of this reliable remedy were bought last week by careful mothers so as to be prepared to check coughs, colds and crop at the beginning. It acts almost instantly, cuts phlegm, soothes raw, irritated membranes, stops tickling in throat. Sold everywhere—Adv.

Before taking it he could not walk 100 yards without resting. Now he can walk three miles without resting, and sleeps like a log—Adv.

The Sporting World

MICKY FORKINS

FORKINS AND DUNN TO CLASH TONIGHT; MAIN BOUT TO GO 10 ROUNDS

Both Boxers Are Primed For Struggle Which Will Mean Supremacy.

INDOOR SPORTS BEGIN

Tonight's the night! With an array of little twists, of which local boys will be the leading factors, the Playhouse A. C. Wills opens its doors at Slavish Hall with one of the two greatest boxing shows arranged to take place here.

Chief interest naturally will center in the star bout of 10 rounds, which features Mickey Forkins, the former Duquesne boxer, and Charley Dunn, the knockout marvel of Ambridge. Spectators are rife regarding the outcome of this encounter. Dunn, trained to the hilt with one object in view, to slay over his mighty karo "kick," looks the finished fighter that he is. Forkins, in charge of his mentor, Jimmy Dine, is also on the ground. Mickey, radiant with confidence, not only has no fear of Dunn's walloping punch but expresses the belief that he will be returned the winner.

Both of the stars arrived in the city during the day. Forkins looks to be a little heavier than the knockout king but Dunn appears to be unconcerned about Mickey's weight.

With a stellar attraction Slavish Hall undoubtedly will be crowded to the walls. On the same card preceding the main attraction, Mike Moran of Mount Washington makes his bow to lovers of things pugilistic. Alko hooks up with Young Plaza of Pittsburgh, favorably known here. The opening bout, which starts at 8:30 o'clock, sharp, will feature Johnny Bellock of Dawson and the debut of Jim McElroy of Trotter, two rivals for local honors.

The ring has been rebuilt to stand the terrific strain that the headlines are bound to put on it and everything is in readiness for an entertainment of boxing that the fans will long remember. Tony Bufano, local veteran, will see that everything runs smoothly in the ring.

ALLEGHENY COLLEGE TEAM ROUNDING OUT

MEADVILLE, Dec. 4—Applegren, coach at Allegheny college, won the letter 11 times in his career as a college athlete... His six feet two inches tall, weighs 190 pounds and is a live wire physically and mentally. He is a crack full of nervous energy and a beaver in hard work for a team, driving his men keeping 'em moving and at times using rough stuff. His army training made him a stern disciplinarian. In spite of one mishap after another, to his best players, he made a creditable showing with the Allegheny football team this season and is now busy whipping up material for the basketball squad out of field of more than 30 aspirants. Practice is being held daily in the college's new gymnasium, which was formally opened last month and has one of the finest floors in the tri-state territory.

CASEY CLUB BEATS ARMY TEAM IN FIRST GAME, 12-21

The Casey club defeated the Army team in the first game of the season last night. The contest took place on the armory floor.

The Casesy's presented a strong line-up and the Army team was shown up by lack of sufficient practice. A good crowd attended the games. The score:

CASEY CLUB—42. ARMY—24. Robinson, Hume, Evans, White, Pritchard, F., Melville, Rogers, Henry, G., Strawn.

At the Theatres

THE SOIREE.

"THE LOVE EXPERT"—Starring Constance Talmadge in one of her latest productions, and a splendid comedy are being shown today. Scenes for "The Love Expert" are laid in New York and Palm Beach. Exteriors were taken at Palm Beach where Miss Talmadge and her entire company spent a month. Natalie Talmadge, the third and youngest of the famous Talmadge sisters, has an important part with her sister. The job of marrying off two sisters and an elderly aunt so that the brother of the girls may be free to wed the woman to whom he has been engaged for years is some big task but it is undertaken by Babs Hardcastle, played by Constance Talmadge. Babs was successful in finding mates for the two sisters and compromising her father into marrying the elderly aunt, but she received a temporary setback in the case of the brother, Jim Winthrop, when his fiance suddenly was wedded to a college professor. But such setbacks as that are easily overcome by a "love expert."

Monday and Tuesday Pauline Frederick will be starred in "Madame X," one of the most inspiring stories of mother love ever shown on the stage or screen.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"SUNDOWN SLIM"—The story in which Harry Carey has scored his most recent success, is the feature attraction today. "Sundown Slim" is a rugged being who has been many a job—for a little while; he'd been on the bum—and he'd lived in style. But there was the road windin' . . . mile after mile. . . . And nothing to do but go." When a Santa Fe boxcar jerks on to the siding at Antelope, Ariz., "Sundown Slim" finds himself in a country where he is welcome for his worse. His happy-go-lucky way wins him friends, and before he knows it he is deep in the exciting events that transpire occasionally in far-off portions of the west. Knibbs knew his Arizona and big tramp when he wrote the story. Carney knew his Arizona and his tramp, too, and he has shown it in the picture. "Sundown Slim," which, by the way, the author had a hand in producing out on the desert.

Monday and Tuesday Maude Kennedy, Goldwyn's charming star, will be featured in "Help Yourself," Wallace Irwin's famous story.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE WAY OF A WOMAN"—With beautiful Norma Talmadge in one of the most pleasing roles of her screen career, it is an unusually interesting attraction today. Miss Talmadge's leading man is Conway Tearle. Miss Talmadge rises to new heights of artistry as the heroine in her latest Select picture, Nancy, the eldest daughter of the fine old Lee family of Virginia, finds at the age of 21 that her whole life and happiness are being sacrificed to the empty family traditions. She was made to give up Anthony Weir, the man she loves, because her father thinks he is not "good enough." She turns against the family pride which has brought them up little and decides to marry George Trevor, an impossible New York bounder, for the material advantages he can bring to her family. In the end, however, Anthony realizes that his love is greater than his doubt, and the romance comes to a happy ending. A two-reel comedy is included.

Monday and Tuesday Montague Love and Alma Rubens will appear in "The World and His Wife," a big production.

BIG ACHIEVEMENT OF RAY SCHALK

Let us pause to consider the achievements of Ray Schalk, one of the smallest catchers in the major leagues, but the like of which the national pastime never saw.

Last year he set a record of hitting in more than 200 games for seven consecutive seasons, but this year not only broke that marvelous record but caught in 161 contests, setting a new American League mark for faithful performance. Steve O'Neill ran him a close second in the 1920 championship season, catching 149 battles. George Gibson set the major league mark of 150 in 1909 when he backstopted for the Pirates.

The previous American league record was 141, established by Oscar Stanage of Detroit. Schalk came within two of that in 1917, being tied that year with Hank Severud of the Browns.

Schalk's Record.

Schalk's complete major league fielding record since he joined the White Sox follows:

Year	Games	P.O.	A.	R.	F.
1912	24	85	26	10	.304
1913	155	65	153	15	.394
1914	154	613	168	25	.374
1915	154	656	169	12	.364
1916	154	654	166	10	.360
1917	154	654	155	10	.363
1918	155	622	154	12	.367
1919	155	622	153	12	.361
1920	155	671	157	12	.363

This shows a total of 1,054 games, 1,760 putouts, 1,230 assists and 121 errors, for a grand average of .380.

During the past season the White Sox pitchers struck out 482 batters.

And the best part of Schalk's performance is he shows no sign of wear.

Before that he was regarded as the poorest "chucker" in the organization from the point of games won and lost. But Brenton had confidence. He laughed at disappointments and became a star.

Sugar and Cocoa in A. R. A. Kitchens are Lollipops and Caramels to Europe's Kids

Typical Group of Europe's Hungry Kids

Children born in Eastern Europe since the war have never known the sweets of childhood, such as lollipops and caramels. Many of them have had their first taste of sugar in the American Relief Administration European Children's Fund kitchens. Sweetened rice is one of the foods used in the kitchens for building up small bodies wasted with hunger. And cocoa does for the boys and girls of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Austria and the Baltic States, what it did for our soldiers during the war. Herbert Hoover is chairman of the European Children's Fund. Four thousand kitchens supported by the Fund are at work in Central Europe feeding two and a half billion children who would starve without the free bread and soup they get there. Mr. Hoover estimates that $25,000,000 will keep the kitchens going until the crops of 1921 come in.

SATURDAY EVENING, DEC. 4, 1920.

MORE THAN WORDS WILL BE NEEDED.

The action of the Men's Bible class of the United Presbyterian Church in giving Chief McDonald a vote of confidence expresses the attitude and sentiment of that element in our citizenry which is interested in a moral regeneration of the city. Chief McDonald's determination to discharge his duty as he sees it, without fear or favor, and the record as a police officer, inspire the hope that a clean-up of a thorough and lasting character will now be made. Assured that the new chief means precisely what he says the people of the city have faith that nothing will be lacking on his part to accomplish the much to be desired object.

But the members of the Sunday school class who have assured Chief McDonald of their support, and other citizens who are just as much concerned about a wholly new order of things being inaugurated with respect to the detection and prevention of crime, should bear in mind that verbal expressions of confidence in the new chief will not alone provide him with the kind of aid he will most need in the administration of his office.

Instances have not been lacking when a form of support has been pledged undertakings having improved conditions in the city as their object, but the promised assistance did not always assume substantial form and character. When later the efforts to accomplish what had been hoped had failed, there has been all too ready substitution of censure and blame where praise and promise had before time been freely bestowed.

The present instance is similar in that the assurances given Chief McDonald must be more than mere words if he is expected to derive actual benefit therefrom. If wrong-doing is known to exist and the chief or his officers are not advised of it, because of the fear that it will hurt my business," or the informant would incur the ill will of the perpetrators, the police might not otherwise gain knowledge of the law-breaking and the "example of apparent immunity from arrest will lead to other and perhaps more flagrant offenses. Again, if appearance as witnesses against offenders is evaded for like reasons the efforts of the officers to secure convictions may go to naught and we will have advanced but little in the direction of suppressing law-breaking.

The "average" citizen is given to much complaining about the laxness of law enforcement and the inefficiency of officers, forgetting all the while that we remain from public servants just about the kind of service we demand. Thus it is that, even when an official sets a high standard to which he hopes to attain and is not consistently backed and supported by citizens, he often falls short of both his own and the public's expectations.

We believe Chief McDonald will give Connellsville quite the best police administration we have ever had, but without a wholesome and vigorous public sentiment back of him which persistently demands and will aid in enforcement of the laws and ordinances, he will accomplish much less than he hopes and courageously plans to do. In such case the well-meaning but indifferent citizen will have rather more of the blame to bear than the others.

With the right kind of old Chief McDonald can make Connellsville as clean as the people want it to be, but not any cleaner.

EQUALIZING THE TAX BURDEN.

The necessity for larger tax income in the state of Pennsylvania, as well as in all the political subdivisions thereof, gives pertinence to the observations made by Governor Sproul before the conference of governors with respect to the invasion by the national guard gatherers into the fields especially reserved for state and local taxes.

"It," said the governor, "the federal government is to maintain its heavy toll upon the enterprise and thrift of the people, we shall have to look to it to carry on some of the educational, constructive, custodial and remedial activities which are presumed to be the functions of the state. It would seem that there should be some line of demarcation between the subjects of federal taxation and those to which the states may look for their revenues. Surely, the land is bearing all of the burden of taxation which it can stand and any increase will add to the economic difficulties of our people and to the 'problem-one' problems of homes and housing."

Similar objection may also be urged on the part of the subdivisions of the commonwealth that in large part and in some instances all, of the revenues derived from purely local taxes are diverted to the state's use.

and the cities, boroughs and townships have difficulty in financing their own needs. In consequence it is no longer possible to adequately provide for the growing demands of our schools, municipal and township improvements and the increasing costs of administration.

The objection of Governor Sproul to the national government deriving revenue from state and local sources is well taken, but on the other hand recognition of the claims of localities to the tax revenues derived therefrom should not be denied. It is necessary for the state to develop new sources of revenue. At the same time provision should be made whereby cities, boroughs and townships are to share with the state in the benefits arising from the collection of revenues like automobile license fees. True, the state as a whole is a beneficiary but the distribution of road expenditures by the State Highway Department is not and cannot be proportioned to the local needs of the several counties. It would be equitable and just, therefore, to permit the subdivisions in which the automobile license fees originate to retain a very liberal share as a means of augmenting local revenue.

The needs of the state can be provided through new sources of tax revenue, of such character as will impose no heavy burden upon localities.

The ruling of the Revenue Department, limiting the "long" in plum puddings and mince pies to one-half of one per cent, will almost make necessary the employment of expert chemists in the kitchens a few days preceding Christmas.

The embattled farmers in the vicinity of Belle Vernon and Fayette City may not fire a shot that will be heard around the world but it is hoped that they will succeed in putting the firebugs where they won't be heard from for a long time.

The loss of her privileged position in the world as a coal exporter is not the only loss England has sustained. For instance, how about the loss of the world's respect resulting from her unfeeling treatment of the people of Ireland?

Even though the weatherman's guess of rain and colder for tomorrow should prove correct that won't deter you from attending church any more than similar weather conditions kept you away from the movies or bargain hunting excursions.

Better to shop early than repent late.

Commodity Prices And Railway Rates

By Railway Age.

In spite of the recent advances in freight rates and the recent declines in commodity prices, freight rates still are relatively much lower compared with the prices of most commodities than before the war. The statistics of the Bureau of Labor indicate that on November 1 the average price of farm products was only 82 per cent higher than in 1913 and the average price of metals and their products only 84 per cent higher. Taking into consideration all the advances in freight rates which have been made, it is probable that the average rate per ton mile of the railroads is now about 81 per cent higher than in 1913. If this estimate is correct, it will lead to other and perhaps more flagrant offenses. Again, if appearance as witnesses against offenders is evaded for like reasons the efforts of the officers to secure convictions may go to naught and we will have advanced but little in the direction of suppressing law-breaking.

The "average" citizen is given to much complaining about the laxness of law enforcement and the inefficiency of officers, forgetting all the while that we remain from public servants just about the kind of service we demand. Thus it is that, even when an official sets a high standard to which he hopes to attain and is not consistently backed and supported by citizens, he often falls short of both his own and the public's expectations.

GOVERNOR SPROUL URGES THAT WASTE OF GAS BE STOPPED

Otherwise the Supply Will Become Exhausted Within A Few Years; Production Declining.

People of Pennsylvania are urged by Governor William C. Sproul to conserve the natural gas supply and to follow recommendations outlined by the committee named through the agency of the Bureau of Mines. "The situation is urgent, the remedy must not be delayed," said the governor. "Of all our natural resources, one of the most useful and efficient, is our supply of natural gas. Those who have resided within the limits of the territory within which it can be supplied have been most fortunate in their enjoyment of a valuable, clean and efficient fuel.

"It was shamefully wasted. As its true worth became known, it has been consumed in large quantities and to a large extent for purposes other than those for which it is best fitted, and in such manner that but a small percentage of its value is utilized. If present means of consumption and production are continued, a few years will mark the end of its general supply. From information we have received from our state geologist, it appears that the maximum production was reached in 1912, since which time there has been a decline in the amount produced, and now, during severe winter weather, when there is a peak in the demand, much inconvenience and suffering is entailed upon consumers by reason of the failing supply.

"We are also furnished information that if the remaining supply were to be restricted to those purposes for which it is best fitted, and it were conservatively consumed through proper gas burning appliances, those who now enjoy its use, as well as many other homes within the area of its supply, could enjoy its benefits for many years to come. Surely there can be no more valuable service rendered than to conserve this valuable resource and continue the benefit of this excellent fuel to the many now enjoying the same, as well as to add to the number so favored."

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest

THE HELPFUL MAN.

Some like to live life to the full, just have such a desire to be helpful father—that's his style. Makin' takes easier all the while. Even the dogs would run to him. With a splintered foot or broken limb, as though they understood and knew that something for 'em he would do.

Troubles? He never speaks the word! At least nobody ever heard him utter such a complaint; but he does it. He'd be delighted if you asked for aid. An' if he knew that he had made your bath a little easier, then he was the happiest of men.

His purse was open all the time. He often said it was a crime. The few coins he borrowed a day what ever said? They'd say, "An' how low you are!" Well, he had a smile on his face, and a smile on all his low, real very small.

An' he would rather die than feel his heart was gettin' cold to steel.

When folks was sick, he'd go see. Because we knew that he would know just how they were. I ed here to see 'em we'd have done. If only we were halfway like him. But we found he'd go after 'em, and if you ask him, he'd smile and say, "We'll find 'em, I'm sure."

Now, how we'll go along. How shall we surer to tomorrow's touch. Without the friend who'd do so much?

ODD CAP AND JACKET

The Signoritas of Spain first learned the secret of charm in black lace and here Fashion has stolen the notion and been inspired to create this lovely set—a black lace hip.

"About five miles from our destination we met Mario about. You know what he had to tell us. While we were talking—it took some time to make him understand you weren't Leonora and that we had no right to butt in—Curnahan bolted up the road in a high-powered roadster making about forty miles an hour on a stiff grade—didn't see us because we stopped just around a bend in the road until he was almost on top of us. He got his brakes on in time to stop just short of my car, which of course was blocking the road. Andrews and Mario recognized him instantly, and he knew Mario. After us interrogating a three-cornered pistol fight as I ever care to see again in the role of innocent bystander, Curnahan took cover in the woods. We pursued.

"Unquestionably Curnahan took you for the ghost of Leonora and was convinced when he failed to hit you once in five shots at close range."

"Tea," Priscilla said, "the last thing before he killed himself he shrieked her name."

"Well," Fosdick resumed, "you were a physical and mental wreck. I had to wait till you were strong enough to confront Mother O'More and cheat the truth out of her. Before you were out of bed she had a paroxysm stroke that put her vocal cords out of commission. She couldn't have talked if she'd wanted to. I did everything that could be done for her, and she clung to life with amazing tenacity; in one so aged, but the second stroke came yesterday and finished her. I had made the manager of the home a personal friend. He telephoned at once, and I ran out to Pawling this morning. Among the old woman's few effects we found these letters:

Fosdick didn't offer to give them to Priscilla. "I'd rather you didn't read them yet," he said. "They're rather affecting letters. I'm afraid they'd upset you. Later, when you're quite strong again."

"They were written by your father to your mother. She was Mother O'More's niece. She met your father through posing for him. Their marriage was an affair of sudden impulse. They loved each other devotedly, but they were never after the first few months, happy. Your mother had a strongly independent spirit. She was out of place in the society of your father's friends. Know it, now how she handicapped him and resented it bitterly. She refused absolutely to try to mold herself to his ways of life. They quarreled hideously. I fancy she wanted to have him and he wouldn't listen to it. Remember they were deeply in love."

"Eventually they left New York on a forlorn hope, planning to establish themselves in some part of the country where they were not known, and try to build up a life together. That was a foreordained failure. Your father was miserable away from his home and his friends. At last your mother took her fate in her hands and ran away. She took with her Leonora, leaving you to your father."

"Leonora was your mother!"

"You were born twins in California, several months before your mother ran away. Your father used every possible means to try to find your mother and induce her to return to him, but she eluded him till the end she died. It would seem a year or so later, leaving Leonora in the care of her aunt—Mother O'More. These letters were addressed to your mother in her care. It would appear they were never answered."

But Priscilla was no longer listening, and perceiving this Fosdick paused.

"My sister! the girl exclaimed after many minutes of thought—Leonora!"

That is the explanation of my twin," Fosdick admitted. "True, a strong psychic affinity exists between twin who has long been a scientifically accepted fact. The records of peer research confirm many instances of telepathic and telesthetic communication between twins. No record exists of a case so extraordinary as yours to my knowledge, still that is the true explanation."

"Put Leonora. Did she know about me? I mean did she dream of me as I dreamed of her? I wonder."

She did do some extent at least. She told Mario about it. Of course she had the advantage of you because she knew she had a sister. But she had glimpses of you life in her dreams, now and then and envied you and resented your happier fortunes. So Mario says."

"Mario?" Then you have seen him?"

Today Fosdick said, smiling. In fact I took him with me to Pawling. We've grown to be good friends this summer. He's an extraordinary fine fellow. He wants to see you if you think you're strong enough for the in-

"Where is he?"

Downstairs waiting in the library—

The girl took two impulsive steps toward the door turned back with a radiant face and flung out her hand to Fosdick.

"Oh Philip! Philip!" she cried tears of happiness in her eyes contrition quivering in her voice.

He bowed above her hands pressing them to his lips.

"Philip dear girl," he said releasing her. "It's happiness enough for me to think. But you're keeping Mario waiting. Go."

Fosdick stood with a bowed head watching her go. He thought to this world where dreams come true (THE END.)

Vegetation Carpets Sudan River

The search for convenient ways of transportation by which the products of the Sudan may reach the outer world attracts attention to a remarkable phenomenon of vegetal life on some of the head waters and tributaries of the Nile. This consists of enormous growths of papaya and other plants completely covering the streams and forming carpets of vegetation two or three feet thick between two or three feet thick between the banks of the water. Navigation by small boats is of course prevented by this obstruction, which is in places supplemented by vines and overhanging plants that arch the streams from bank to bank. Heavy floods occasionally sweep away the accumulation of plants but they are quickly reformed.

SPOT COKE MARKET REGISTERS DECLINE OF 50 CENTS PER TON

Standard Furnace $7.50-$8.00;
"Off Grades" $1 Less;
Foundry $1 More.

BETTER MARGIN IN COAL

Producers and Consumers Unable to Get Together on Contracts for First Half of Next Year; May Finally Deal on a Flat Instead of a Ratio Basis.

Special to The Weekly Courier

PITTSBURG Dec 1—Since last report spot and prompt furnace coke has sold at a wide range of prices owing to the forcing on the market of some coals of a quality well below standard, such coke going at $6.50 and $7.00 while standard quality has brought $7.50 and $8.00. A decline of 50 cents in the regular spot market is represented, as no cases are found of standard coke having sold at less than $7.50. Even that price was not done until this week and the trade attributes the shading of $8.00 this week to the fact that a purchase of 100 carloads was made by an eastern furnace last Friday at only $8.00 when it had been thought that such a round lot would bring at least $8.50. The market a week ago was nearer $8.50 than $8.00 as while $8.00 had been done the figure obtained only in small lots, purchasers of any tonnage having had to pay $8.50.

With the decrease that has occurred in merchant coke production the market probably would have held at the level maintained for two or three weeks but for two factors, one being that the demand in the spot market has been very high while the other was that some operators had held their coke too long expecting the development of a better market. There has now been a sort of clean-up and the market may be steady in future.

Foundry coke with rather light demand, has continued to decline in order to reach a normal relation with furnace coke, and the formerly reduced differential of $1.00 a ton is now established again. The spot market for regular grades is now as follows:

Furnace	$7.50-$8.00
Foundry	$8.50-$9.00

The spot coke market has been greatly aided by the fact that a number of operators have such grades of coal, and such coal loading facilities that they can sell their coal to advantage for by-product and gas purposes when they cannot get $8.50 or higher for coke. For several weeks past some operators have had a better margin by selling their coal than they would have had if they had converted the coal into coke and sold the coke at the full price obtainable from time to time for spot coke.

Coke operators and furnacemen are still indisposed to get together in the matter of making contracts for the first half of the new year. The price views are far apart and the furnace men are proceeding on the theory that the lapse of time and the progress of the decline in pig iron will cause the coke operators eventually to consider lower prices for coke than they now have in mind. The coke operators seem quite willing to try this out, believing that the backlog they now have in the coal market will continue. The operators insist that the prices he furnacemen have in mind would represent less than actual equivalent value of coal in coke i.e., less than one and one-half times the market price of a ton of coal plus the cost of making the coal into coke.

There is much talk about ratios in connection with first half contracts but as has sometimes occurred in the past buyers and sellers may talk a great deal about ratios and then wind up by dealing on a flat price basis. Furnacemen seem unwilling to consider anything higher than five to one for coke, against basic pig iron at Valley furnaces while operators will not consider that ratio except that one contract was made about a month ago on this ratio. Operators who talked four to one but would probably reduce somewhat from that position.

While the making of coke contracts is delayed the pig iron market continues to recede. Yesterday there were furnace offerings of Bessemer pig iron at $35. Valley receding offerings of $2.50 and $2 in the respective markets. At five to one the $35 price would not be the coke operator only $6.50 for his coke which would hardly satisfy operators in the present mood and the market is practically certain to decline further, even before the half year begins. It seems probable however that while basic pig iron has declined $15.50 in two months it will not decline with any rapidity in the next few months. No one seems to doubt that eventually it will decline below $30 but that price might not be reached by April 1 or the middle of the half year.

Poundry iron was offered late last week at $37. Valley or $2 decline and with basic already down to $33 it is expected that the next important inquiry for foundry iron will bring out further reductions. The market is now quoted as follows:

Bessemer	$28.00
Basic	$25.00
Foundry	$37.00

UNLOADING "DRIVE"

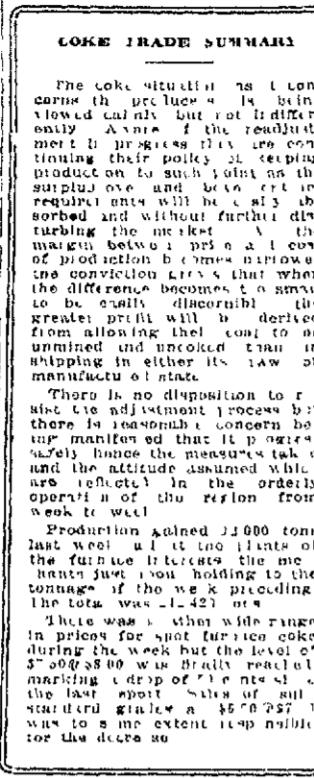

Of the Baltimore & Ohio Results in a Gain of 61 Per Cent.

These prices ate of a b Valley furnaces bright to Pittsburgh being $1.56.

Demand for pig iron is almost wholly absent and there is no expectation that any buying of consequence will develop before January or February. Meanwhile furnaces are normal unloading of 73.601 tons. An east 21 and 22 recorded the highest number unloaded during any single week end the total having been 7.912 cars, an increase of 79 per cent.

FOUR PER CENT DROP IN OUTPUT BEEHIVE COKE WEEK NOV. 20

Decrease Was General, Production for Year to Date Shows a Gain of 144,000 Tons.

Decrease coke production in the United States during the week ended November 20 totaled $6.00, or a decrease from the revised figures for the preceding week of 15,000 tons or slightly less than four per cent. The last reported value of all standardized grades is $6.00 per ton, was to a large extent leap night for the decrease.

This was a short wide range in prices for spot furnace coke during the week but the level of $6.00-$8.00 was firmly maintained. The market of all kinds of coke was $8.00 as while $8.00 had been done the figure obtained only in small lots, purchasers of any tonnage having had to pay $8.50.

With the decrease that has occurred in merchant coke production the market probably would have held at the level maintained for two or three weeks but for two factors, one being that the demand in the spot market has been very high while the other was that some operators had held their coke too long expecting the development of a better market.
